

Tricolor Too Good For Big Blue Twelve

Queen's Backfield Played Smartest Game of Career

SCORE 16 TO 4

Started Sensational Football In Latter Stages

(Special to McGill Daily by Saul Hayes, Resident Staff Correspondent).

Toronto, Oct. 28.—With the Queen's backfield playing the best football they have shown this year, the Varsity team were compelled to accept a bad beating before a capacity crowd of over 17,000 enthusiasts here Saturday.

The score of 16 to 4, just about indicates Queen's superiority and in the second half they were quite four times as good as their opponents. Varsity tried hard and only the excellence of their line allowed them to leave the field at the end of the first half leading 4-1. The Varsity Captain, Murray Snyder, dropped a perfect goal from 25 yards out, to have Varsity lead and his effort was sustained until in the second half when Queen's settled down to show the Blues how rugby should be played.

The criticisms of the inferiority of intercollegiate teams in the last few years as compared with the best inter-provincial teams was dispelled by Queen's excellent showing, there can be little doubt that the winners of the inter-provincial race will not have the walk-away formerly conceded when they meet the college champions in the Dominion finals.

The tricolor team improved greatly as the game progressed, and during the second half of the game they could not do anything wrong. Carter and Warren caught difficult ones faultlessly, the weak line improved the wings were down fast under Carter's kicks and would not allow Bell and Battle many gains, while the generalship of Sutton, with the ability of Durham to break fast, resulted in the addition of 15 points to their score.

Queen's first major point came in the third quarter, two minutes after the kick-off, when Kilgour blocked Darling's kick to gain possession, Carter made a nice 35-yard run around the end to score an easy touch, which he converted. From this point on, it became evident that Varsity could only win by taking wild chances, which they did not accept.

Book Exchange To Pay Today

Three Hundred Students To Receive Money For Sales

Nearly three hundred students will count this as their happy day for the Students' Book Exchange, in spite of reports to the contrary, is to pay out to its clients that money which has been received for the books that have been sold. The office in the base of the Union will be open at two o'clock for such payments today but there is no need to come in a rush, for the payments are assured. It is hoped that all payments will be made by six o'clock.

Those who expect to receive their money are asked to bring down the slips which were handed to them in receipt of their books. This refers to those who handed in their books under this scheme but it will be found that the majority of people will not have slips, as owing to the extraordinary influx of books at the beginning of the term there were not enough to go round.

Payments will be made to the persons themselves and the Book Exchange states that it will not pay to proxies, as a signature will be required. The following is the list of those to whom money will be paid: Abbott, A. G. Aiken, Alexander, Allen, Altner, Anderson, Archdale B., Archdale E., Aronovitch, Baker, Barclay, Baron, Barr D., Barr R. M., Barrington, Barry, Bayliss, Beatty, Beattie, Belnap, Bercevic, Berthorp, Bernstein F. L., Borstein G. L., Billingsley, Birnie G. Former R. V. C. Lecturer Wins Essay Contest

Paris, France, Oct. 19.—Dr. Genevieve Bianquis, former lecturer at the Victoria College, Montreal, Canada, was awarded the first prize in an International Contest for her essay on "The Influence of Nietzsche on French Thought".

Mademoiselle Bianquis, after leaving the Royal Victoria College, obtained her Ph.D. from the University of Paris.

Girlhood Not Deteriorating

President of Vassar Gives Views On Young Women

FORUM CROWDED

Body, Mind, And Attitude Better — Many Women In Audience

The meeting last night at the People's Forum was addressed by Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, President of Vassar College. The subject: "Modern Girlhood: Has it Deteriorated?" drew a crowd which packed the Forum, and overflowed into the aisles, the vestibule, and the street. "Apart from cigarettes, profanity, summer beaches, and the like, which are undoubtedly with us," said Dr. MacCracken. "When we look deeper into ethics and religion, which are essentials, we see the young woman going to find out for herself, and devising certain standards of honor and decency of her own to meet changing custom."

"Mocking generalizations," Dr. MacCracken pointed out, "Are very dangerous." The speaker chose rather to adopt the method of distributive science, and make remarks from exact study of a few typical cases. With regard to body, statistics show that the modern girl is over 2 inches taller than her counterpart of 50 years ago. She is 10 pounds heavier, has a waist 2 inches larger, and is firmer on her feet. Her attitude toward her body is one of greater command and freedom. She has a freedom from delicacy and physical complaint, she is better fitted to bear a child. The girl of courage and sun-burn and tan is the ideal of today.

As to mind, Dr. MacCracken stated that in twelve years of intelligence testing there has been no evidence of any deterioration in whatever the test signifies. "There is," said the speaker, "in the young woman a mental willingness to submit to necessary training. For every 3 women admitted to Vassar this year at least 2 were refused, who would have been accepted 2 years ago. The students model themselves on famous women and the standard of academic excellence is steadily growing higher. The attitude of young women follows the 'New Morality.' They are confronted by opinions and processes which seem obsolete. In religion it is idealism. And in social opinion it is, for want of a better word, daughters of the American Revolutionism. It is dogmatic and staid. The result is that we find girls seeking positions in social service work, in politics, in education. They go to see for themselves. And," concluded Dr. MacCracken, "A light hearted spirit which goes down a deep valley smiling gives us the feeling that the typical young woman is NOT deteriorating."

First Church Service Held In Moyse Hall

Large Attendance Encourages Student's Christian Ass.

REV. W. R. MALTBY

Noted Preacher Delivers Sermon On "The Choice Before Us"

The first of this session's series of University Church Services, under the auspices of the S.C.A., was held in the Moyse Hall on Sunday morning. The preacher was the Rev. W. Russell Maltby, D.D., who spoke on "The Choice Before Us" using as his text the story of Jesus' temptation in the wilderness.

Dealing first with the temptation of the turning of stones to bread, Dr. Maltby explained that Jesus refused to perform this miracle because He was unwilling to do for Himself what He would not do for others later. That He should be unwilling to appease men's hunger is perfectly natural because Jesus had no desire to buy converts but to win them by love. In the same way Jesus was able to remain unmoved by the sight of all the kingdoms on earth, for He had no desire to force men to love him by any show of temporal power, claiming that a man who accepts something under compulsion is no longer a man. Referring to the third temptation where the Devil asks Jesus to throw himself down from a high mountain for the purpose of proving Himself to be Christ, He refused to do this because He did not wish to win converts by making a demonstration.

From this story of the temptations we see that Jesus does not enter into our hearts in the same way as might a member of the family. He stands on the threshold of our hearts and it is for us to choose whether we will admit him or not.

The service was very well attended. Moyse Hall being almost filled with students, professors and their friends. The singing was led by a choir of students and accompanied by Mrs. Charlotte Stewart on the piano.

Before turning to the Church Dr. Maltby graduated from a Scottish University as a lawyer. Seeing that his views of life fitted him for a life in the Church rather than at the Bar. Accordingly, he entered the ministry of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. Dr. Maltby held a number of important charges before assuming his present post of Warden of the Deaconess College at Ripley. He holds a unique place among the leaders of youth in (Continued on page two)

Maccabaeans To Hold Dance

Issie Aspler To Play For Function At Mt. Royal

The annual dance of the Maccabean Circle will be held in a new place this year. The Plaza of the Mount Royal has been secured for the occasion on November the 29th, a Tuesday night. In order to accommodate those who attended last year and the many who were unable to secure tickets.

A special dance committee has been formed to take charge for the event. Issie Aspler and his renowned orchestra are surely enough to attract a crowd and ensure the evening's success. In other directions the committee under the chairmanship of Ruth Spector will make it a worth while dance in the choice of novel favours and unique decorations. Dancing will begin at 10 p.m. and will continue on till 3 a.m. The patrons and patronesses will be announced shortly.

The profits of the dance it has been announced will be devoted to the Maccabean book fund. This fund, it will be remembered, goes to the purchasing of books for the Redpath Library thus making the dance a worthy cause.

In order to avoid disappointment this year, those wishing to attend are asked to communicate with the dance committee as early as possible. Members are: R. Spector, Chairman; H. Herman vice-chairman; Gertrude Lerner, Regina Shoelman, Dorothy Bloomfield, Luba Godine, H. C. Goldenberg, A. Kirshberg, Frank Godine, Jon Dobrusky, D. Lewis, J. Wasserman, Harold Lande, B. B. Cohen, Leo Spector, L. Marks, D. Lerner, and H. J. Erdrich.

Interfaculty Training Table For Arts Team

The first interfaculty training table will be held in the Union Cafeteria today at 1 p.m. A full Arts team is expected to turn out and partake of special nutritious foods for football players. In view of the important game to take place between Arts and Medicine at 3 p.m. it was decided to have the team meet at lunch and discuss a few plays instead of postponing practices till a few seconds before the game. A victory for either team practically means a championship in Law, Medicine and Arts Section of the Interfaculty League. The winning team then plays the winner of the Commerce Dentistry and Science division. So far the different standing in the league are as follows: Commerce, 4; Arts 3; Medicine, 3; Science, 2; Law, 0; Dentistry, 0.

C.O.T.C. Stage Mountain Trip

Successful Manoeuvres Carried On By Corps

The McGill C.O.T.C. began its field manoeuvres last Saturday when some seventy men and officers embarked for Ste. Margarets in the Laurentian Mountains. During the week-end the unit made the Ste. Margarets Golf and Winter Club its headquarters for the tactics which were carried out in a highly commendable manner.

Early Saturday morning, the advance party under Major Jenkins made preparations for the main body which arrived early in the afternoon in time for a short manoeuvre. During the afternoon an advance-guard action was carried out. A party in charge of one of the senior cadets attempted to break its way through a rear-guard detachment covering the retirement of the supposed enemy, who were retreating toward Montreal. After encountering the stubborn resistance of the retreating force, the attacking troops were successful in overcoming the opposition offered to them.

After the manoeuvre was concluded the men were formed up and listened to the criticism of the commanding officer. This concluded the tactical scheme for the afternoon and after dinner the men were left to themselves. Inter-company games were carried out with much merriment and enthusiasm. While Q.M.S. Brown (C.C.R.) entertained the officers and men with yarns drawn from his wanderings of a sergeant-major, Capt. Pennell and the well-known "Pat Murphy" gave demonstrations of the Terpsichorean Art.

Sunday morning found the corps engaged in a tactical scheme consisting of an attack on a defended position. This was, if possible, something more arduous, carried out as it was in the snow which had fallen during the evening.

An Infantry company, acting as an advanced guard to a battalion, attempted to dislodge a defending force of equivalent strength, in a strong position on a ridge nearby. After the action which both defending and attacking parties claim to have won, the scheme was discussed by the Officer Commanding, and the action of the various commanders criticized. The party then returned to indulge in a succulent repast.

The cadets were free from then until supper, during which period they were photographed by a moving (Continued on page two)

Dr. Maltby At S.C.A.

Will Deliver Series Of Three Lectures This Week

The S.C.A. has made arrangements for the Rev. W. Russell Maltby, who preached the sermon at the University Church Service, to deliver a series of lectures during the coming week. These lectures will be given in Strathcona Hall to-night, to-morrow and Wednesday evenings at 7.30 P.M. and in the order of their presentation are entitled "Concerning Certainty in Religion," "The Certainty of Jesus and its Relevance for Us," "The Adventure Upon Religion".

M.W.S.S. Meeting

There will be a general meeting of the McGill Women Students' Society tomorrow at one o'clock in the R.V.C. Common Room. Every woman student should be present.

Annual Drive Of Federation Opens Today

Require $600,000 To Carry On Work In 1929

32 AGENCIES

One New Association Is Added To List Of Needy Organizations

Today the Federated Charities Campaign opens, with an objective of $600,000, and will continue until November 5th. This is a federation of 32 charitable agencies which existed as separate organizations up to six years ago, when they pooled their money-raising resources in a co-operative organization, which was called "Financial Federation of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies."

The Union does away with the separate appeals of each organization, and adds to the efficiency of collecting, with less expense. The objective this year is higher than that of last year, because The Negro Community Centre Association has been added to the list. Then with an increase in the population of Montreal, the field for work has greatly increased.

The work of the Federated Charities falls in three distinct classes:—Eight organizations take care of mothers and children, and nurse the hurt and sick. They have to contend with tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes, and mental and nervous diseases. $145,495 is needed in 1929 for the work to be carried on successfully. Last year this help was given to 49,403 persons. The agencies are: Mental Hygiene Committee, Murray Bay Convalescent Home, Child Welfare Association, Epileptic Institute, Victorian Order of Nurses, Diet Dispensary, Westmount Social Service Association, Brehmer Rest Preventorium.

The sum of $139,027 is needed in order that poverty may be fought with any success. It is the work of five organizations to prevent unemployment, cruelty, neglect, crime, breeding influences and the helplessness of old age. Last year these charities helped 9,314 men, women and children through such misfortunes. These helping associations are: Family Welfare Association, Society for Protection of Women and Children, Women's Directory, Sheltering Home Industrial Rooms, Canadian Prisoners' Welfare Association.

Supervised recreation for boys and girls to give them a fair start is carried on by ten organizations. Games, gymnasium and field athletics, swimming, kindergarten, music, hand (Continued on page three)

Committee For Campaign Named

Objective For McGill Division Is Set At $13,000

McGill is divided into two sections for the purposes of the Federated Charities Campaign, namely the staff and the students. The Division objective is about $13,000, but the committee are of the opinion that McGill can far exceed this last year. This Division went over its objective, which indicates that the University is capable of doing the same this year.

The committee directing the canvassing of the staff is composed of Prof. J. C. Simpson (Chairman), Dean Henry M. Mackay and Dr. J. B. Porter. The Students' Executive Council heads the section for the canvassing of students, with Alan A. Macnaughton as chairman. There is a committee composed of one representative from each faculty as follows:

Science: Eric Jacobson.
Arts: Dewart Hinds.
Medicine: Gordon Copping.
Dentistry: Ross Murray.
Theology: Vic Rose and Johnson.
Law: P. Foran.
Commerce: Douglas Smith.
Conservatorium of Music: A. Street.
R.V.C.: S. Cox.
Graduate School: C. H. Cheasley and Maile MacSparran.
Representatives have been appointed in each class, and an effort will be made to canvass every student in the University before the end of the week.

McGILL MASONIC CLUB

The first meeting of this session of the McGill Masonic Club, will be held in the S.C.A. Room at Strathcona Hall Thursday Nov. 1st, at 6 p.m. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. After supper there will be a short business meeting. Brother John S. Archibald, F.R.S.A. Architect of Temple.

Cabaret Not To Be Held

No Cabaret will be held by the Scarlet Key Society after the McGill-Varsity rugby game on November 10th. This is due to the fact that general feeling about the university is against having too many activities held outside the college buildings. Last year a Tea Dance was held after the Toronto game, but as it was not a financial success, none will be held this year.

Cadets Proved Valiant But Not Effective

R.M.C. Footballers Defeated 20 to 1 By McGill

THREE TOUCHES

Lovering, Brown and Smythe Scored Tries — One Convert

The cadets of the Royal Military College proved game but ineffective opposition for the McGill senior football squad in their annual exhibition at the Molson stadium on Saturday.

After four periods of football, in which upwards of fifty players took part, the red squad came off the field victors by 20 to 1.

The score, however, was the least important part of the proceedings. The crowd came to see the colorful soldier squad, to find perhaps the arduous thrill that was denied them in the Queens game. They found that and more. They saw a fast open and highly engrossing game of football between two squads that disregarded for the most part, the fine points of the game, and came out with a most entertaining brand of the game known as Canadian rugby football.

It was a game in which speedy halfbacks played a great part. The McGill contingent of halves, Tremaine, Doherty, Lovering, Kritzweiser and Smyth, were sent skirting around the ends for extensive gains, and in doing so gave a display of passing that offered the crowd some genuine thrills. In final stages of the game, Norm Smyth streaked around the left and dodged through the end R.M.C. squad to score a touch. It was a move characteristic of the whole game.

In view of the fact that the soldier squad meets Loyola intermediates in a play-off game on Wednesday, the form of the cadets was the focal point of the eyes of the local critics, and also of the Loyola team. The cadets were impressive. They look to be one of the best squads the College can boast of in recent years. The line is fast and shifty, and moved with speed to cope with McGill extension plays. They have a plunger of the highest calibre in Massie, and a fast backfield built around the husky frame of Nichol. Loyola will undoubtedly have their hands full next Wednesday.

Practically the entire intermediate team was merged with the McGill seniors on Saturday and most of them got their chance to show what they could do. Kritzweiser and Smyth proved to be the pick of the subs, the pair doing some brilliant work on the (Continued on page four)

Steel Expert To Speak Here

Dr. Hatfield Will Discuss Rust And Acid Problem

Dr. W. H. Hatfield, director of the Brown-Firth research laboratories, Sheffield, England, will speak in the Macdonald Chemistry Building tomorrow evening at 8.15 p.m. His subject will be "Heat, Rust and Acid-Resisting Steels." This will be considered as a joint meeting of the Montreal chapter of the American Society for Steel Treating and of the McGill Sigma Xi and the McGill Physical and Chemical Societies.

Dr. Hatfield, whose reputation as a scientist and metallurgist is world-wide, having devoted many years to the special study of stainless steels, is now visiting this continent under the auspices of the American Society for Steel Treating. He delivered the Edward DeMille Campbell Memorial Lecture at Philadelphia and during his present tour is lecturing before various chapters of the A.S.T. and eastern universities, including Brown, Yale and Michigan universities, the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and the Institute of Technology, Boston. He is the author of "Cast Iron in the Light of Recent Research" and recent papers on the corrosion-resisting and heat-resisting steels.

PLAYERS' CLUB

The casting of characters for the "Watched Pot," the comedy to be produced by the Players' Club next month, will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Strathcona Hall. It is expected that understudies will be chosen for the leading part. The casting will be private, only the Director, Mr. Chesney, and one or two others being present. All those who have handed in their names are asked to turn up, whether they have decided on a part or not.

Rugger Team Beats Varsity

McGill Fifteen Played In Toronto Saturday

SCORE 14-5

First Game Of Intercollegiate Series — Return Match Here This Week

By the wide margin of 14 to 5, the McGill English Rugby team on Saturday demonstrated its superiority over the Varsity fifteen, on Toronto grounds, thereby taking a nine-point lead in the home and home series for the intercollegiate championship. The return game will be played this Saturday, when Varsity will visit the McGill squad.

After the game in Toronto the two teams were entertained at a banquet at Hart House, where one of the speakers stated that plans were now in progress whereby one or more additional teams might be entered in the intercollegiate series next year.

Both teams got quickly into action after the kick-off by McGill. One minutes after play opened, Varsity were penalized for feet up in the scrum, and Kincaid taking the free kick, scored a field goal for McGill. Two minutes later Burton of Toronto blocked one of Nelson's kicks behind the McGill goal line and fell on the ball for a try, which Goldenberg converted. The score rested there at 5 to 3 for Toronto, until near the end of the period, with both teams battling furiously for an opening. Varsity forwards were practically aggressive at this stage, dribbling often and rushing the McGill halves before they could get the ball away.

With but a few minutes left of the first half, McGill worked the ball up to Varsity's thirty yard line. The ball came out clean from the scrum, Gibson passed to Langstroth who crossed-kicked beautifully to Rice. Rice passed to Chalmers who carried it over for a try. The attempt to convert failed, and the half ended 6 to 3 for McGill.

The second period was all to the red team, although the Varsity fifteen fought hard. Goldenberg and Lee were particularly in evidence but their runs were offset by their inability to combine McGill three-quarter line, on the other hand, were passing well and making long gains by their speed and combination. The McGill forward line early in the second half assumed the offensive role and took practically complete command of the scrumming. Taking advantage of this, the halves and thirds pressed the play, and soon ran up a score. A nice run by Skinner and MacMillan ended in a scrum, from which Langstroth took the ball, ran twenty yards and passed to Rice, who made the touchdown and converted himself. The last try resulted from a nice bit of play. Luke gathered up a loose ball and passed to Langstroth on McGill's fifteen yard line. Langstroth ran fifty yards and passed to Hands who carried it another forty yards to make the score 14 to 3 for McGill. The convert failed.

MONTREAL, MONDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1928.

FEDERATED CHARITIES.

McGill has its chance to be generous this week and we do not believe that students will fail.

Federated Charities is opening its annual campaign to obtain funds to help those who have not had a square deal in this hurly-burly of life and they have appealed to McGill to do its share to help straighten out the crooked paths and blind alleys into which many of the city's unfortunates are being thrust. They have asked McGill for $13,000. Last year $14,890 was raised. Can we not do as well this year?

Many of the students at McGill are naturally not permanent residents of Montreal, and too commonly the easy excuse is made that 'We don't live here, why should we help?' It is a very poor excuse, for they certainly are not giving anywhere else, and need is not a thing of a universal appeal.

The plea is made to those starting out on the open roads which lead to mental achievement and financial prosperity on behalf of those who are starting life handicapped with every kind of handicap. It is made on behalf of the children of the destitute and dissolute; of orphans; of boys and girls who will be condemned to jobs which lead to nothing but lives of drudgery without hope of advancement or escape. Money collected is used in adjusting the handicaps of those who started life under circumstances so unpropitious that more fairness demands that the more fortunate shall give them at least a sporting chance to win from life some comfort and colour. 32 organizations are included under the scheme of a federated charity campaign, covering every phase of relief work that a large city demands.

Money collecting will be in the hands of the class presidents, and it is a joint responsibility of the president to see that each member of the class is given his opportunity to give, and of each member of the class to see that the president of the class receives his money. We do not think that many students will fail.

Surprisingly little comment has been raised by the report of the committee appointed last year to investigate the constitution of the Students Society. Yet the changes mooted mark a distinct departure from the existing order of things. True the matter will not be raised for definite decision until the spring but now is the time for discussion, and there should assuredly be much of that before the new order is officially passed.

Well like to know for one thing just what difference between an ex-officio member of the students council, and an active one. Editor-in-chief of the McGill Daily are ex-officio members of the Council, but they are also active members. The President of the Union is vice-president of the Council. What seems to have been meant is that these two officers will be advisory members of the Council only, without a vote.

An excellent suggestion is that the president of the Undergraduates Societies should actually represent the faculty, not only at the banquet table, but at the Council where matters affecting his faculty are being discussed. Probably there would be an increased interest in election if this suggestion goes through, and it seems logical to suppose that the council man would be in a better position to carry out decisions of the Council when they effect his own faculty.

There is one point which does not seem quite clear. Excellent as most of the proposals are, they do not appear to cover the motion of last year which gave birth to the investigation. This motion, it will be remembered, was designed to limit the number of offices that a man might hold at any one time, the method of achieving this being to grade offices, and prohibit the holders of certain offices from holding more than one, or two offices, as the case might be, at a time. The idea is a good one, and one that it would be a pity to see drop.

A good deal of congratulation is due to the committee for its work during the summer months on the matter, and we trust that it will bear its proper fruit, after undergraduates on the campus have given the proposals proper consideration so that they fully understand the meaning of the proposed changes.

CAULIFLOWER AND CABBAGES

Fitzhugh

ETERNAL WOMAN.

William was holding in his hand
The likeness of his wife,
Fresh, as if touched by fairy hand,
With beauty, grace, and life.

He almost thought it spoke—he gazed
Upon the treasure still;
Absorbed, delighted, and amazed,
He viewed the artist's skill.

"This picture is yourself, dear Jane,
'Tis drawn to nature true;
I've kissed it o'er and o'er again,
It is so much like you.

"And has it kissed you back, my dear?"
"Why, no, my love," said he,
"Then, William, it is very clear,
'Tis not at all like me."

AN ACCOUNT OF RUBENSTEIN'S PLAYING.

"Jud, they say you have heard Rubinstein play when you were in New York?"

"I did, in the cool."

"Well, tell us all about it."

"What! Me? I might as well tell you about the creation of the world."

"Come, now; no mock modesty. Go ahead."

"Well, sir, he had the blindest, biggest, cattycornerdest pianer you ever laid your eyes on; something like a distracted billiard-table on three legs. The lid was hoisted, and boxin' the thing's jaws for bein' in his way. And I says to the man settin' next to me, 'What sort of fool-playin' is that?' And he says, 'Hush!' But presently his hands began chasin' one 'nother up and down the keys, like a parcel of rats scamperin' through a garret very swift. Parts of it was sweet, though, and reminded me of a sugar-squirrel turning the wheel of a candy-cage."

"Played well, did he?"

"You bet he did; but don't interrupt me. When he first sat down he 'peared to keer mighty little 'bout playin', and wish! he hadn't come. He twiddle-oddled a little on the treble, and twiddle-oddled some on the bass—just foolin' and boxin' the thing's jaws for bein' in his way. And I says to the man settin' next to me, 'What sort of fool-playin' is that?' And he says, 'Hush!' But presently his hands began chasin' one 'nother up and down the keys, like a parcel of rats scamperin' through a garret very swift. Parts of it was sweet, though, and reminded me of a sugar-squirrel turning the wheel of a candy-cage."

"Now, I says to my neighbour, 'he's a showin' off. He thinks he's a doin' of it, but he ain't got no idee, no plan of nothin'. If he'd play a tune of some kind or other, I'd...."

"But my neighbour says, 'Hush!' very impatient."

"I was just about to git up and go home, bein' tired of that foolishness when I heard a little bird waking away off in the woods, and callin' sleepy-like to his mate, and I looked up, and I see that Rubinstein was beginnin' to take some interest in his business, and I set down again. It was the peep of day. The light came faint from the east, the breeze blew gentle and fresh, some birds waked up in the orchard, then some more in the trees near the house, and all begun singin' together. People began to stir and the gal opened the shutters. Just then the first beam of the sun fell upon the blossoms; a little more and it teched the roses on the bushes, and the next thing it was the broad day; the sun fairly blazed, the birds sang like they'd split their throats; all the leaves were movin' and flashin' diamonds of dew, and the whole world was bright and happy as a king. Seemed to me like there was a good breakfast in every house in the land, and not a sick child or woman anywhere. It was a fine mornin'."

"And I says to my neighbour, 'That's music, that is.'"

"But he glared at me like he'd cut my throat."

"Presently the wind turned; it began to thicken up and a kind of thick grey mist came over things; I got low-spirited directly. Then a silver rain began to fall. I could see the drops touch the ground, some flashed up like long pearl earrings, and the rest rolled away like rubies. It was pretty, but melancholy. Then the pearls gathered themselves into long strands and necklaces, and then they melted into thin silver streams running between golden gravels, and then the streams joined each other at the bottom of the hill, and made a brook that flowed silent, except that you could kinder see music, especially when the bushes on the bank moved as the music went along down the valley. I could smell the flowers in the meadow. But the sun didn't shine nor the birds sing; it was a foggy day, but not cold. The most curious thing was the little white angle boy, like you see in the pictures, that run ahead of the music brook, and led it on and on, away out of the world, where no man ever was—I never was certain. I could see the boy just as plain as I see you. Then the moonlight came, without any sunset, and shone on the graveyards, over the wall, and between the black sharp-topped trees splendid marble houses rose up, with fine ladies in the lit-up windows and men that loved 'em, but never got a-nigh 'em (it was very sad), and played on guitars under the trees, and made me that miserable I could 'a cried, because I wanted to love somebody, I don't know who, better than the men with guitars did. Then the sun went down, it got dark, the wind moaned and wept like a lost child for its dead mother, and I could a-got up and there and then preached a better sermon than any I ever listened to. There wasn't a thing in the world left to live for—not a blamed thing; and yet I didn't want the music to stop one bit. It was happier to be miserable than to be happy without being miserable. I couldn't understand it. I hung my head and pulled out my handkerchief, and blowed my nose well to keep from cryin'. My eyes is weak anyway; I didn't want anybody to be a-gazin' at me a snivilin', and it's nobody's business what I do with my nose. It's mine. But several glared at me as mad as Tucker. Then, all of a sudden, old Rubinstein changed his tune. He rip'd and he tar'd, he tip'd and he tar'd and he pranced and he charged like the grand entry at a circus. 'Peared to me that all the gas in the house was turned on at once, things got so bright, and I hilt up my head ready to look at any man in the face, and not afeard of nothin'. It was a circus, and a brass band, and a big ball, all going on at the same time. He lit into them keys like a thousand of bricks; he gave 'em no rest, day nor night; he set every livin' joint in me a-goin', and not bein' able to stand it no longer, I jump spang into my seat, and jest hollered

"Go it, my Rubie!"

"Every man, woman, and child in the house riz on me, and shouted, 'Put him out! Put him out!'"

"Put your great-grandmother's grizzly grey greenish cat into the middle of next month, 'I says, 'Tech me if you dare! I paid my money, and you jest came a-nigh me!'"

"With that several policemen ran up, and I had to simmer down. But I would 'a fit any fool that laid hands on me, for I was bound to hear Rubie out or die."

"He had changed his tune again. He hopt-light ladies, and tip-toed fine gentlemen from end to end of the key-board. He played soft, and low, and solemn. I heard the church-bells over the hills. The candles in heaven were lit; one by one I saw the stars rise. The great organ of eternity began to play from the world's End to the world's End; and all the angels went to prayers.....Then the music changed to water, full of feeling that couldn't be thought, much less told about, and began to drop—drip, drip, drip, clear and sweet, like tears of joy fallin' into a lake of glory. It was sweeter than that, it was as sweet as a sweetieheart sweetenin' sweetness with white sugar mixed with powdered silver and seed diamonds. It was so sweet, I tell you, the audience cheered. Rubin, he kinder bowed, like he wanted to say, 'Much obliged, but I'd rather you wouldn't interrupt me.'"

"He stopped a minute or two to fetch breath. Then he got mad. He run his fingers through his hair, he shoved up his sleeves, he opened his coat-tails a little further, he dug up his stool, he leaned over, and, sir, he just went for that old pianer. He slapt her face, he boxed her jaws, he pulled her nose, he pinched her ears, and he scratched her cheek till she fairly yelled. He knock't her down, and he stamp't on her shameful. She howled like a bull, she bleated like a calf, she shrieked like a rat, she howled like a hound, she screamed like a pig, and then he wouldn't let her up. He ran a quarter stretch down the low grounds of the bass, till he got clean into the bowels of the earth, and you heard thunder gallopin' after thunder, thro' the hollows and caves of perdition; and then he foxchased his right hand with his left till he got away out of the froble into the clouds, whar the notes was finer than the pints of cambrie needles, and you couldn't hear nothin' but the shadders of 'em. And then he wouldn't let the old pianer go. He for'ard two'd, he cross't over first gentlemen he cross't over first lady, he balanced to cros's, he chassode right and left, back to your places, he all hands'd aroun', ladies to the right, promenado all in and out, here and there, back and forth, up and down, perpetual motion, doubled and twisted and turned and tackled and tangled into forty-seven thousand double bow-knots."

"By Jinks! It was a mixtery. And then he wouldn't let the old pianer go. He fecht up his right wing, he fecht up his left wing, he fecht up his center, he fecht up his reserves. He fired by file, he fired by platoons, by companies, by regiments, by brigades. He opened his cannon, siego guns down thar, Napoleons here, twelve-pounders yonder, big guns, little guns, middle-sized guns, round shot, shells, shrapneus, grape, canister, mortars, mines and magazines, every livin' time. The house trembled, the lights danced, the wals shuk, the floor come up, the ceilin' come down, the sky split, the ground rock't heaven and earth, creation, sweet potatoes, Moses, pennies, glory, tenpenny nails, my Mary Ann, allelujah, Sweet Caesar in a simmon tree, Jerusalem, roodic-oodle-oodle-oodle.... riddleiddle-iddle-iddle.... rectle, cetele-cetele, p-er-r lang per lang! p-r-r-lang! Bang!"

"With that bang he lifted himself bodily into the air, and he come down with his kees, his ten fingers, his ten toes, his elbows, and his nose, striking every single solitary key on that pianer at the same time. The thing busted, and went off into soventeen hundred and fifty-seven thousand five hundred and forty-two hemi-semi-quavers; and I know'd no mo."

For the McGill forwards, Kincaide was outstanding. Heaney and MacMillan were good in the loose. The backfielders turned in good games, but the combination of Chalmers and Rice was especially commendable. The teams were:

Varsity—Full back, Kelly; three-quarters, Rogers, Goldenberg, Stewart, Godsoe; halves, Reame, Lee, Archibald; forwards, Gale, Franklin, Burton, Armstrong, Nash, Glenn, Bell, spars, Heslop.

McGill—Full back, Nelson; three-quarters, Hands, Hart, Chalmers, Rice; halves, Langstroth, Gibson, Kincaide (capt), forwards, Skinner, Norris, De Chazal, Heaney, Lake, MacMillan; spars, Starkey.

Referee—A. Moore.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir,

In all humbleness and with due respect to the student council I wish to make a few constructive criticisms concerning the handbook for 1928-29. There should be an unruled blank section of say, fifteen pages for addresses, telephone numbers and dates. How often have you been embarrassed by the lack of a suitable memorandum section? The diary section is a very poor substitute, and I believe, of little use. If necessary, leave out the diary section and insert the blank section. But, at all costs have a memorandum section! An improvement like the above would make the handbook indispensable at all times in all places.

Also why not a neat classified advertising section instead of the existing widespread conglomeration? The advertiser would reap larger returns and the rates could be set to equal the previous gross return.

The results in both cases would be appreciated I am sure by all students who are strangers to the city, and must necessarily keep addresses and rely on advertisers.

Yours truly,

Commerce Student

Redmen Lose To Pick Of Juniors

All Stars Come Out On Top With 3 To 1 Score

In a lively but rather one sided game in which McGill eleven did not seem to be in at all, an All Star team picked from the Junior Football League of the city defeated the Red team by three goals to one, in an exhibition match on Saturday afternoon on the campus. Seldom was the Red team so completely outplayed. Seldom was the lack of practice on the part of the home squad so evident. Most of the boys played a very mediocre football and seemed to lack energy. The Maroons outplayed their opponents in almost every department of the game; especially was their superiority evident in the short passing game and they seemed to have plenty of speed to spare. It was another "off" day for McGill.

The redeeming feature of the Red team was the stellar play of Helwig at full back; he was called upon time and again to clear from Maroon forwards and he acquitted himself nobly. Nor was Tommy Gavin out of the picture. The McGill skipper is a better defensive player than an offensive one and frequently fell back to help the defense against the ever dangerous All Star forward line. Tommy was working overtime playing a defensive game as well as working line.

For the first five minutes after the kick-off the Redmen set the pace. But for the rest of the game their opponents dominated the play. The McGill team missed the ball frequently, and were usually too slow in getting it away. Their opponents were more sure of themselves, and seldom made the mistake of hanging onto the ball until they were robbed of it.

The Red team drew first blood, getting their only goal through a fluke. It was a lucky break for them when Norfolk, the Maroons right back misjudged the distance of the ball, and put it into his own goal through a miskick.

The All Stars squared matters shortly after however, when McArthur, flashy outside left accepted a neat pass from Sawyers. The outside left had plenty of time to take aim and put it as far out of Fitzgerald's reach as he could. Giovando was hurt shortly after and was taken off the field, but came on limping, before the interval, which found both teams on even terms, each one goal.

The second half started off very well for the "Stars" for, within half a minute of the commencement of the second forty-five, they dribbled their way through the Red team to take the lead on a short from Kitley at inside left, getting a beauty of a pass from the right wing were Muir was certainly centering the ball to some purpose.

The Maroons were up in the Red's territory most of the time, and might have increased the score against their opponents were it not for the heavy booting on Helwig's part, the full back figuring strongly in a determined defense. Fitzgerald was given plenty of shots to handle, and forced a few corners, at times tipping the ball over the bar to save the goals. He did exceedingly well in stooping a couple at point blank range but for the most part cleared rather poorly. Sawyers and Kitley getting in on his rebounds, but fortunately for the Reds, they shot wide frequently. Denny cleared from a couple a corner kicks.

The visitors clinched the game when Kitley trapped the ball from a corner kick sent across goalmouth by Muir. The Westmount player made no mistake about it and added another goal to the credit of the visitors. That ended the scoring for the day, and although the home players tried harder than ever to score, they were held back by a stonewall defense in Norfolk and Brown, and did not even get many chances to test Shorrock. The final whistle found McGill attacking with the ball in the "Stars" territory. On the All Stars outfit there were really no outstanding players, the team being dangerous in attack and strong in defense. Shorrock had little to do and did not get more than a dozen shots from the Red forwards. Mr. Hillman handled the whistle to the satisfaction of all.

The players were the line ups. The name of the team from which each player was picked is placed opposite his name.

Varsity Took Soccer Game From Cadets

(Special to McGill Daily)
Toronto, Oct. 28. — Toronto Varsity defeated R.M.C. at Soccer by 3 goals to 2 in one of the keenest contested intercollegiate games in many years. The more scientific playing of the Toronto team was pitted against the strong defence of the soldiers and smarter work triumphed. Davidson and Skelton did the scoring for the Blue and White with the former accounting for two points. McTavish in goal for the cadets saved his team from a bad drubbing in the second period by his smart efforts. Varsity and McGill meet at Montreal Saturday to decide the intercollegiate championship.

Balmer Won Harrier Race In Fast Time

Calhoun Second — Team To Be Chosen

On Saturday morning at 10.45 twenty men took part in the run to see who would go to Kingston. Running conditions were good the bright sunshine and keen air favoured the bettering of times. The first to finish was Balmer in the remarkably good time of 23 min. 25 sec. Close on his heels came Calhoun with the time of 24 min. 1 sec. Lochead a new man with the harriers came third. H. R. Ross finished fourth and Ball fifth. J. M. King who last year finished third suffered from a stitch and placed eleventh this time. Mention must be made of Macdonald a freshman, who placed sixth and promises to be a tower of strength in the future. Captain Bob Calhoun was satisfied with the results and will pick his men for the meet at Kingston Nov. 3rd. The first ten men to finish were: 1—Balmer 2—Calhoun 3—Lochead 4—Ross 5—Ball 6—Macdonald 7—J. M. King 8—Makin 9—F. MacNaughton 10—Barclay.

Queen's Juniors Defeated Loyola

Scored 4 To 1 Victory In Championship Series

Queen's University Juniors took the lead in the semi-finals of the Junior Intercollegiate play-offs, on the Loyola campus Saturday afternoon, by defeating the Loyola Juniors 4-0, in the first of a home-and-home series, for the Eastern title. The second and deciding game will be played in Kingston on Wednesday.

The Kingston aggregation had a line, averaging twenty to twenty-five pounds heavier per man, and with the Day-Acheson combination on the half-line, it is little wonder that the comparatively younger and lighter footballers from Loyola were able to withhold, or even contend with such opponents. A remarkable fighting spirit on the part of the Notre Dame de Grace students was the outstanding feature throughout the game. Time and again the hefty Queen's gridmen would charge the Loyola line, but in doing so were always sure of meeting an opposition, which, although not bulky, proved nevertheless effective.

On a survey of the game, Queen's had the better of the play from beginning to end. On the offensive, their weight served them to good purpose, while the agility and speed of the backfield both on end-runs, and on running back the Loyola kicks was very consistent from the beginning to the end of the game. Loyola, on the other hand, had a line which displayed grit and courage, both on defensive and offensive play. The Maroon backfield, had little chance to break away for any runs, and concentrated more on a defensive game rather than on an offensive game.

Soccer---Gossip

The question as to which team will occupy the cellar position in the Intercollegiate series will be decided tomorrow afternoon on the Campus when Arts-Commerce meet the Theology eleven. Each team has played one match, the former losing out to Science, while the Sawbones came out on top in a match with the Theologs. The game will be played whether old man Sol smiles down on the Campus, or the players have to don bathing costumes. The following are asked to turn out for Theology: Gillard; Taylor and Dunlop; Harano, Coates and Smellie; Pollard, Wolf, Brown, Murray and Ritchie.

It is hoped that the following will turn out for Arts-Commerce: Brown, Covshoff; Reece, Helwig; Gambel, Mollett, and Vandelpen; Crabtree, Watt, Maule, Altner, Allo, Harkness, Wilson, Carnell, and Cunningham.

With the last five names above kindly get in touch with Joe Altner at 1.05 this afternoon at the Daily office. Len. 7411.

Mr. Alfred Gordon, President of the Junior Association of the P.Q.F.A. stated that the Junior Association appreciated the game very much, and that the boys like such representative games. Mr. Finlay was pleased with the match and proposes to make the games between All Star teams from the Junior Association an annual fixture.

Jack Maule was discharged from the Royal Victoria Hospital yesterday. His hand is pretty well healed now, but he does not think that he will be able to turn out for practice for a few days yet.

McGill Mermen Play Wheelers Tonight

Doubleheader At Knights Of Columbus Tank

McGill's Swimming and Water Polo Club will commence its 16th season with a double-header at the Knights of Columbus tank at 8.15 tonight. The seniors will entertain the M.A.A.A. "Red" team, while the Juniors will be at home to the single M.A.A.A. Junior team entered in the series. Both games are likely to be close; the "Reds" are practically the same team that just managed to nose McGill out of the championship last year, while the Junior game will probably see the two strongest teams of this year's league playing.

Things did not look so well a few weeks ago, when it was seen that only four of last year's team would line up again this fall. However round these four men, Gibbons, Bourne, Clarendon and Mathams, a snappy squad of polo players has been built into a team by hard-working Harold Fisk, Campbell Gardner, who played goal for Medicine last year, will take the place vacated by Ned Buchanan last spring. The vacancy in the right forward position has been filled up by Aubrey Shackell who played Juniors two years ago, and is getting lots of steam behind his shots now. The other place to be filled was that of right defense, and a berth at that position has been earned by Mercereau, who captained Arts in the interfaculty league last year.

The seconds will have a few experienced men, but will be made up largely of newcomers to the game. However, it is quite probable that they will be strengthened by the addition of the two senior substitute men, Payton and Astwood, for at least half of the game. The two squads will line up as follows:

Meds vs. Arts

The second half of the interfaculty rugby schedule will start on the Campus at 3 this afternoon when Arts meet Medicine.

last two seasons, that of fumbling catching-halves, had not been corrected, consequently only very lucky breaks would have allowed Varsity to win. Durham who played as good a game as anyone on the field, accounted for five more points shortly after Carter's touch, he broke fast and shot through for another 35-yard run, easily evading half the Toronto would-be tacklers. This was the high light of the game unless it was the entry into the stands of George Young, the famous swimmer, and his wife.

Warren, another fast backfield player of Queen's also contributed some good gains, but they did not add to the score, whereas a 10-yard run by Durham placed Carter in a good position to try a field goal which he accepted, putting 3 more points, bringing the total to 16. Varsity were so badly bottled up that they could make but few attempts to score. Their efforts became futile with the perfect tackling of the Queen's wings and the uncertainty of the Blue halves.

The only outstanding Varsity players were Dunn with his backline and Harrison and Bean on the line.

It became quite evident as a result of Queen's victory that McGill will have a very tough assignment on November 8 at Kingston. The Queen's halves, true to tradition, break very fast on their extension plays and unless this can be effectively checked the Red team will have plenty to think about. The Queen's line, although not much improved, is superior to McGill's and consequently there will be a battle of the half lines and outside to decide the championship of the intercollegiate series.

half line. Talpis was sent to replace Jack Brown at quarter for a good part of the game, and when the youngster lost his nervousness, he made a decidedly good field general.

As an indication of the ability of the McGill squad, the game was practically worthless. With nothing at stake the players threw caution to the winds. Passes were made in spite of the obvious danger of interception. The play did uncover, however, a weakness in the McGill kicking. Ken Tremaine, regular kicking half, did little else but match the fair kicking of Gobell, the cadet's punter. Kritzwiser also took over the kicking duties at one stage of the proceedings but did not improve matters much.

McGill took an upper hand in the proceedings from the opening whistle, when the red men crashed through for yards on four successive occasions, and Bill Lovering crashed over the line for a touch. The cadets tightened their line up considerably and McGill were unable to dent the cadet front rank with as much ease. A kicking duel between Gobell and Tremaine ensued and play saw-sawed up and down the field. A brilliant series of McGill end runs resulted in bringing the ball to the 25 yard line and Nichol was routed for another point. The cadets started a drive on the McGill line and led by the eminent crashing of Massie brought the ball in a position for Gobell to punt over the line to Kritzwiser, who was routed for the cadet's only point. Just before the half time whistle, McGill added another point to their total.

Shortly after the start of the third quarter, Tremaine attempted a placement from the cadet 20 yard line, but the oval went wide of the mark and it went for a rouge.

The final period carried most of the fireworks for the day. George McTeer led a victorious attack through the centre of the line and the McGill squad moved down the field to ten yards out. McTeer carried most of the cadets with him for eight yards and Jack Brown slid over the remainder. Norman Smyth provided the final thrill when he sped around the left end for McGill's final five points.

Smarter Than Ever This Season—

MUSKRAT, the Youthful

By Canada's Largest Furriers—

as low as $160

The younger set's storming the muskrat market. You'll see it an established favourite. Because this fur is so supple and light, yet extremely comfy—because it's so versatile, one has choice of numbers of charming designs—because muskrat stands up under hardest and longest wear—because the price is as practical as the fur itself—moderate!

We are well prepared for the big demand. Scores of wonderful muskrat coats, some made from backs, only, of skins; others from sides, only, of skins; models with skins worked in fascinating modernistic patterns. High roll collars. The new narrow and long pointed collar. Self-trimmed muskrats and coats enriched with contrast trims.

The important feature of our muskrat stock is — VALUE. Holt-Renfrew wonderful quality—then impeccable style—and to top them, value —VALUE that is matchless.

Drop in on Saturday! Try them on! We'll think you'll find that never yet have you seen such lovely coats priced so reasonably. And—the Holt-Renfrew label in a fur coat is an everlasting guarantee of quality and value.
